

SIMON FRASER

HERE are few people who can put their finger on a map of the world's surface and say: "There will grow a big city"—one man did. His name was Simon Fraser, the city, Fort Fraser. Here is a good likeness of this remarkable man, the frontiersman and explorer who, over a century ago, crossed the Rocky Mountains and covered a large portion of British Columbia. He was a man with a perception many years ahead of his time, with a liking for exploration and adventure. On his return to civilization, Simon Fraser made predictions regarding the future of British Columbia and the development of the Central Interior that were then considered ridiculous. The realization of this development, even at this time, overshadows, belittles his most optimistic predictions.

When exploring the Central Interior, Simon Fraser and his followers selected the present site of Fort Fraser as the base of supplies and headquarters. From this point exploration trips were conducted to the North, to the West and to the South. On these trips, thousands upon thousands of acres of rich agricultural land were covered. Even over a century ago, the present site of Fort Fraser was the strategic location of this vast empire of agricultural land. Today, with the rapid development of the city of Fort Fraser, with the opening of the roadways and trails, with the settlement of its tributary agricultural lands, and the rapid approach of rail transportation, it absolutely commands the trade of this great section. Its supremacy as a trade centre has kept pace with the development.

The settlement of each great area of agricultural land makes absolutely necessary the upbuilding of a great city. The rich agricultural land of the Central Interior is sure of development. It is certain of colonization and settlement, and Fort Fraser, the master city of this district, will undergo a rapid, substantial development the like of which has been duplicated in but few parts of the world. Remember this: Fort Fraser commands the best of the agricultural land of Central British Columbia. This agricultural land is capable of sustaining a city with a population of over one hundred thousand people. There is a scarcity, all over the world of cheap, good agricultural land. Central British Columbia will soon have rail transportation. With rail transportation will come settlement, and with the settlement surely will follow Fort Fraser's upbuilding and success.

"BURNING RIVET" COMING TO ROYAL

Excellent Program Arranged for Monday and Tuesday at Nanayo House.

The management of the popular Nanayo avenue picture house have arranged for this special Latin feature in two reels for Monday and Tuesday as a headline attraction.

The "Burning Rivet" (Special)—2 parts—
—Major Wellman has taken his first false step under the guidance of a political boss, Tom Sullivan, but refuses to be a further party to the crooked deals of the Sullivan crowd. Sullivan holds papers concerning Wellman's misdeeds over the latter's head. Wellman takes a stand in the matter. Wellman's son, Harry, is in love with Sullivan's daughter, Margaret, and Sullivan tells Wellman that he will wreck his son's romance. Wellman makes a clean breast of the matter and Harry stands by his father. Sullivan prepares to make good his threat and calls on the city editor of the "Transit" and bids him send a reporter for the story exposing the mayor. The editor, sending a big story, sends his star man, Tom Gaynor, not knowing Gaynor is a friend of the mayor's son. Gaynor hears of the details from Sullivan and does his best to dissuade him. Sullivan, who is half drunk, grows abusive and in order to help his friends, Gaynor decides to handle the story and do what he can to avert its publication. In giving his editor the facts he tries to get him not to make public the matter, but the editor refuses.

Margaret is greatly incited by the news, but tells Harry he is doing right, and that she will stand by him. Sullivan orders and Margaret tries to appeal to him, but he won't listen. He turns on Harry, telling him he will send his father to jail. Sullivan and his crowd drink in preparation of their victory. Harry tells his father there is but one way left and before his father can interfere he leaves for Sullivan's office bent on getting the papers if he has to steal them. Sullivan at his office opens his office window for air. It is high above the ground and he half drunkenly watches some rivet workers on a big structural building nearby who are throwing red hot rivets from one floor to the other. Harry is seen to enter Sullivan's office by the janitor, but deciding it is none of his business, goes on with his work. Sullivan warns what Harry is there for and points to the safe as he opens it, telling him the papers are there. Harry, fearing his denials, goes in, takes the papers, and placing his feet on the desk, does off. Harry meanwhile has walked off down the street. A red hot rivet thrown by the riveters misses its mark, hits a structural beam and falls through Sullivan's open window beside a waste paper basket. Fire soon envelops the room and consumes the papers in the safe. When Sullivan stupidly awakens he is out off. Harry returning meets a crowd at the office door on the street and from Gaynor learns of Sullivan's tragic death. He makes the statement that he was with him but a short while before. That is overheard by Sullivan's henchmen and they decide to make an accusation against the mayor by accusing his son of Sullivan's murder, and forcing an immediate trial. Gaynor steps in the article accusing the mayor when the gang would force the editor to run an article accusing Harry of Sullivan's murder. Gaynor refuses to write it and is fired. Margaret, now becoming owner of the paper through her father's death, tells Gaynor she will make him editor if he will find evidence to clear Harry. Gaynor discovers the rivet, and the coroner's inquest clears Harry. The new editor's first copy is the marriage of Harry and Margaret.

THIEF ATTEMPTS MURDER
Regina, Nov. 8.—Frenzied at the thought of facing another term in prison, Wilfred Delcourt alias J. D. Inval, a ticket of leave man, attempted to shoot Inspector Gladwin in his private office yesterday morning. Delcourt and Albert Stich, another convict, were rounded up by Inspector Gladwin and Detective Toop, and taken to the police office where they discharged a surprising amount of stolen goods. The police believe that these men have been mixed up in the recent series of store robberies.

Cleveland has a registration of over 92,000 males and 2,000 female voters.

JUNGLE LIONS AT PANTAGES MONDAY

Another Premier Animal Act
Booked as Headline Attraction—First Act of Real Wild Lions Staged.

The feature position on next week's bill at Pantages has been accorded to Peter Taylor and his Eight Jungle Lions. This is a fitting place for the act as it is one of the most sensational and during exhibitions of animal training and taming that has been shown in the amusement world. Taylor enters the cage of the big brutes with everyone snarling and snipping at him and it requires great agility on his part to keep his eye upon them all, all of the time for he dare not allow them a chance to spring on him from behind. He has trained them after years of labor and they have attained a state of proficiency that is far and away above that of any other act of a similar nature. The beasts were all born in the wilds of Africa and Mr. Taylor personally helped to catch them right in the jungles of Rhodesia and broke them in himself in Cape Town. The greatest animal tamer of the world, Hughson of Germany, and Perrot of New York City, laughed at Taylor when he was first told that he was preparing a sensational act with full grown lions captured after they had attained their growth and many thought that it would never be accomplished, but Taylor proved all the theories held for centuries about the king of the forest and has managed to break the lawless brutes to do some truly remarkable stunts. An attractive act of the bill will be that of Robert Carter and Co. who present a R. Carter called "Vacation Days" concert and trial and tribulations of a convict. It is a bright witty offering bubbling over with rare comedy, of the class the pleasure seekers of the city and the country. The booking agents of the circuit found three clever youngsters none of whom have reached the age of 20 but have nevertheless achieved a coveted place on the vaudeville world. The act consists of a merry mélange of nonsense and songs as well as some new and interesting dances.

Fetty Rym, is a trim young lady who has chosen the portrayal of male characters as her method of entertaining and members of the street will have ample opportunity to see their peculiar traits burlesqued by the girl who makes a most attractive boy. As an appetizer for the good things to follow the program will begin with an animated equitubine number furnished by the Two Amusements, who balance with wonderful dexterity on slender wires finishing with the "Slide Red Life" where one of them slides from the top of the theatre to the state balanced on his head.

KINDERSLEY AND PRINCE ALBERT JUDGES CHOSEN

W. J. Leahy and R. A. Daak Left Of District Judges for Saskatchewan.
Ottawa, Nov. 8.—W. J. Leahy, of Regina, and R. A. Daak, of Prince Albert, were appointed yesterday to the district court judgeships of Kindersley and Prince Albert respectively. These appointments complete the list of judges to be appointed in Saskatchewan. Kindersley is a new district, while the Prince Albert variety was caused by the death of Judge Forbes. Judge Leahy is a native of Halifax, and went to Regina about six years ago, where he had been engaged in practice ever since. Judge Daak is an eastern townsman, but has practiced his profession in Prince Albert about 10 years.

STATUE OF CHAMPLAIN
Ottawa, Nov. 8.—A statue of Champlain will be erected on Nepain Point, Ottawa. This was decided by the cabinet council yesterday. Hamilton McCarthy will design the statue and its location will be determined by the Ottawa improvement commission. Crawfordville, Ga., has dedicated a granite tablet in memory of Alexander H. Stephens, who was vice-president of the southern confederacy.

AT DREAMLAND MOVIE THEATRE

"The Faith of a Girl," "The Ranchman's Daughter," and "His Great Victory."

Today's program at the Dreamland movie theatre taking about; those who have seen "The Faith of a Girl," will tell you that it is one of the intensely absorbing pictures that are the everyday production of the Lubin company. This picture starts off with the marriage of a rich man's daughter, to a young man of the father's mind, and the girl's appreciation; they do not for a moment suspect that he is a crook, which he is in a certain sense. He is arrested on the evening following the wedding, and convicted and sent to the island. "The girl, now his wife, refuses to turn against her lover, and later, during chapel moving in the prison, a fire breaks out. In the confusion, the warden's son is forgotten; the convict rescues the boy, and is afterwards released. The picture ends with the reuniting of the father, within the girl's family and their set.

"The Ranchman's Daughter" is an intensely western drama of unusual interest in qualities and instances where the riders in the picture verge their actions with the riskiest of the risky. "His Great Victory" is an Edison production, depicting a southern war scene and love story. This picture is like the other numerous titles of the war of the North and South, in many ways, but it has a plot that is different and the story reads like a bit of fiction, true to life, during those war-torn times.

Coming for the first part of next week is a comedy of two parts, which is, in itself, a good deal of the bill. "Allan Ross' Gal" recently released by the Essanay company. This picture has a record of creating more laughs per minute than any film produced by the company for quite a while, and is extraordinary in its length, and scenic parts.

FORTY GUESTS POISONED.
Paris, Nov. 8.—A despatch from Cholet, in the department of Maine et Loire states that 40 guests at a wedding party were poisoned after eating a dish that had been prepared with cream. Several deaths have already taken place and it is said that the death toll will ultimately number 10.

MANITOBA WILL SPEND TWO MILLIONS ON ROADS

Government May Erect and Equip Public Abattoir in Winnipeg.

Minneapolis, Man., Nov. 8.—Speaking at a public meeting here tonight, Sir Rodmond P. Roblin, premier of Manitoba, announced that at the next session of the legislature a bill will be introduced authorizing the expenditure on capital account of $2,500,000 for the purpose of improving the rural highways. Sir Rodmond also declared that one line has yet been chosen to make use of the new union stock yards and the government has come to the conclusion that unless the packers who slaughter in the city of Winnipeg establish slaughter houses on the ground provided by the union stock yards, the government will erect and equip a public abattoir and cold storage for the use of the livestock trade.

GOLF HORRIBLY SELFISH GAME SAYS NON-GOLFER

Pastime of Magnates Lacks Chivalry, Sociability, and is Spoiled by Heavy Gambling, Says London Chronicle.

Golf has two sides—the one which the golfer knows, the other which the non-golfer sees.

Golf is the most selfish of all games—golfer are concentrated upon themselves. Genuinity and sociability are absent from the game; not at golf. Two players will go round a whole course, walking a distance which the average operations of players involve of four miles or more, and taking over two hours to do it, without exchanging a dozen sentences. There is a story of two dour old Scottish golfers who reached the eighteenth hole without a single word between them.

Generally the conversation which passes between golfers consists of left handed compliments, which mean the opposite of what they say. One player, for instance, will express sorrow that his opponent is in trouble when he is inwardly rejoicing; he will express admiration at a good shot when he is really saying that it was not a bad one. Both players are the personification of concentrated selfishness. They express opinions about the difficulties of carries and the easiness of certain shots with a subtlety of suggestion which is intended to mislead. Mostly they are bad losers; blame their caddies or the tee or the club or someone walking in front or someone coming up from behind or someone coughing in the distance or something or other for their mistakes which they make themselves. They are fussy, irritable and jumpy when they are losing. They sweat and suffer themselves along with an air of self-conscious concern when they are winning. One word in the name of the two is the more unbecoming to others—the one who wins or the one who loses.

All Lack Chivalry.

There is a strange lack of chivalry among golfers. Rarely will you find a golfer admit that he has been beaten by the rival's good play. His partner had all the good luck; he had all the bad. His partner pulled off several beastly strokes, while his own straightforward play was cruelly punished. Sometimes, however, a player is frank enough to confess that he is of his game. That is the only satisfactory explanation which he can give to himself for the other fellow winning.

When the match, instead of being a single, is a foursome or a foursome, a little element of sociability enters into the game, but the selfishness is not lessened. There is the same lack of chivalry, the same double intention in opponent's mistakes. It is stated that it is impossible to play good golf and indulge in conversation during the game, even about the play. Golfers make up for this voluntarily silent manner of the game by speaking about nothing else after it is over. Fishermen's tales are nothing compared with golfers' talk. Fishermen catch the same big fish every time; golfers play all their good shots (very often and especially every all their bad ones) every time.

While golfers talk little to each other they are not silent. They indulge in monologues, consisting chiefly of expletives. They swear at themselves, at the caddies, at the gunners, and at everything. Nothing. Cricketers, however, tennis players don't swear. Why, then, the use of swear words was so inevitable and apparently indispensable accompaniment of golf? It does not improve the golfer's game; on the contrary, the worse the language the worse the play.

During recent years there has been a great increase in gambling in connection with golf; not a single ball on the game but bets for big stakes. And the bets may change once or twice during the round. Sometimes as much as $1,000 passes over two matches between two or four players. Other people join in the gambling by backing certain players. Gambling golfers are a nuisance to other players on the course, because of the fuss they make and the time they take to go round, besides introducing a demoralizing element into the game.

Corrupts Young Men.

Golf, other peculiarities which emphasize the self character of the game. Golf is the only game in which players employ attendants to carry their implements—the inevitable custom in the south. Young men who become attendants or caddies, if they are demoralized when they take up the work, soon grow corrupt at it. They hear much bad language that is good for them; they listen to the details of gambling transactions, and are tempted to have a go on the game. Caddies is the most unskilled of all jobs; it is a dead end business. It encourages loafing as a caddie leads longer than he works in a day. A few caddies become green-keepers; one in a thousand grows into a professional; but as a rule they are young men who prefer loafing to working, or weary of the life of a caddie. Caddies are not above doing a little illegitimate business in golf balls. Caddies is a most undesirable career for the young.

Golf is a selfish game on a much larger scale than the game of golf. It is an exhibition of selfish luxury. What happens in this? There are a number of points of health and morality preserved as common land to the people by our forefathers, and in the most healthy of nations. Golfers play out a golf course on it. And a little bit does not satisfy them. They need a lot of space. Should common land not be available, golfers buy up an old estate, save it from the builder by paying it for themselves, just as the rich owner did before them.—London Chronicle.

CHAMPIONSHIP BELTS HOODOO TO FIGHTERS

Have Brought Bad Luck to Nearly Every Man to Whom They Have Been Presented—Fighters Becoming Superstitious Over Them.

There seems to be a growing sentiment among fighters to the effect that the presentation of belts is a bad omen. The belts are apt to bring bad luck to the recipients.

"Take the Lonsdale belts given by the National Sporting Club of England," said a veteran fighter, "a bad omen. I have usually happened to the holders. No time than they get pounded to powder in the next scrap they have. Look up the list of Lonsdale belt holders. The first was named a bell champion of his native land, Middleweight at Harrison camp off a bell, came over here and he had a good fight out in a punch. And you all know what happened to our old friend, Bomardier Wells, heavyweight champion of the world. He was the greatest of another of the Lonsdale waist adorners, both Paul and Sam plastered the home into a state of coma and he had to get out wondering how it happened. One day he was hit and sent flying, here again and he'd probably be killed."

"He hit the Lonsdale trophies since the day he was killed. How about some of our own belt and presented to pugilistic heroes. Don't you recollect how Tom McCarry presented the last belt to? Why, none other than poor Lester McCarry, who wound up his short-lived struggle, rather at Calgary. McCarry won that belt by whipping out a right hand before he lost the lightweight championship to Wilkes. Then some time after he became into possession of the trophy belt and died."

"Who you remember once when Jim Corbett thought he would retire from the heavyweight throne, before Fitzsimmons beat him? He picked out Peter Maher, the champion of the world, to fight him. Maher was a New York friend, was so tickled at having a Mick champion that he presented Maher with a belt. Maher was killed in a fight with Fitz, and the red-top knocked him kicking with one punch."

In 1910 Frankie Goetz and Monte Attel met on the coast in a battle supposed to be for the Lonsdale title. Neither one of them came within jumping distance of the champion's limit, but the bout was billed as a championship affair and McCarry gave a belt for the victor, who happened to be Goetz. After that everybody Goetz tackled killed him almost to death. When stories, Johnny Coffey, Joe Goetz, Patsy Kelly, all drubbed poor Coffey; and what's more, he never has since shown good fighting form.

"Pattin Nelson was also presented with a belt, and only had it a short time before he lost the lightweight championship to Wilkes. Then some time after he became into possession of the trophy belt and died."

Evidence of the close alliance that is kept between the New York Giants and the Toronto team is given in McCarry's invitation to Toronto to train his team with him at Toronto in the spring. The offer has been accepted and future statistics and his losses there will be a great help to the Giants if they decide to go to the Georgia city.

BOXING GAME IS SUCCESSFUL IN AUSTRALIA

Boxers Being Engaged From All Over World From Feathers to Heavies.

Although the sport of boxing is popular in America, it is doing even better in France and Australia. A letter from Sydney says:

Mr. Snooty Baker's boxing circuit is now a big thing in Australia. It began with the Sydney stadium set going by Mr. Bush by McInch and purchased outright by Mr. Baker, who promptly set to work to enlarge the field of operations. Boxers were engaged from all over the world, and stadiums had to be secured in which the contests could be held. Mr. Baker at first contemplated competition, but while considering the course, he thought the promoters out, and enlarged the scope of his business. The Brisbane stadium had no rival in all Australia with the exception of the Sydney boxing tabernacle. It seats 7,000 people and provides every one of them with an excellent view of everything doing in the ring. In the meantime the same policy has been followed. Existing boxing promoters have been bought out and larger stadiums are being built in both cities to accommodate crowds from 7,000 to 10,000. Mr. Baker is going in for boxing on a grand scale and it looks as though a new era is certainly in it making Australia a land of milk and honey for the boxer.

A conference of these interested in boxing has been called by Snooty Baker. It is to meet in Sydney on September 2, and will include sporting representatives from all over Australia. The object of the conference will be to consider a number of matters affecting the welfare of boxing in Australia. The first item on the agenda being the adoption of weight limits for the various classes. It is also the subsequent adoption of universal weight limits throughout the world, and the standardization of the allowance of points in refereeing contests. The schedule of weight limits suggested by Mr. Baker is as follows:

Featherweight ... 115 lbs.
Lightweight ... 125 lbs.
Welterweight ... 135 lbs.
Middleweight ... 145 lbs.
Heavyweight ... 160 lbs.
Light Heavyweight ... any weight.

WOULD COUGH SO HARD WOULD TURN BLACK IN THE FACE.

A cough cold is one of the most dangerous kind. It leaves the throat or lungs, and sometimes both, affected. If not taken care of immediately.

Obtunate coughs and colds yield to the greatest of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, containing as it does all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine.

Mr. C. J. Selig, Dartmouth, N.S., writes:—"My little boy, six years old, had a dreadful, hard cough. At night time he would cough so hard he would turn black in the face, and at times he would be so sick he would be unable to stand. I tried different cough syrups, but they did him no good. Then I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and it did him so much good I got another. Now I feel better. I am sure you will write to tell how thankful I am, and I did tell every mother to use nothing else."

BASEBALL NOTES

Dick Egan of the Cincinnati Reds, who is even more confident than a San Francisco pitcher, has opinion that the Philadelphia Athletics will win the National League pennant next year. Then he asked that nothing be printed about it, since he intends to make the world tour with McCarry and doesn't want to get beat.

A benefit game was played in Indianapolis for the family of Eddie Hahn, the catcher who had recently several major league players who live in Indianapolis taking part. Nearly $1,000 was raised for Hahn's widow and four children. W. H. Walker, who played on the Indianapolis team, sent his check for $100.

Was one of the shrewdest catches in the major league during his playing days, and never played any other position.

Packey McFarland to Meet Mike Gibbons at 145 Pounds

Packey at Last Decides to Become a Welterweight, Where He Should Shine—Fight Should be a Fast One, as Gibbons is a Mighty Fighter.

(By W. W. Naughton)

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Packey McFarland and Mike Gibbons at 145 pounds.

Here's a match that will appeal to such as have grown weary of the blood-bath and force-battering of the future day pugilism. If the lads are in proper condition, which means of course that they will be at their best in every way, the bout should be a rare treat for those who are fortunate to witness it.

Of Gibbons we of the Far West know nothing apart from what we have read of his performance. One thing that stands out from all that has been written and said about him is the sensation caused on the occasion of his first appearance in New York. The critics back there to a man pronounced him the most talented glove wielder that had put in an appearance in the city in many a year, and it seems to me that after unanimous indorsement like that from the Gotham, there is nothing further for a ring man to crave in the way of praise.

With Packey we are better acquainted. We have seen him in action more than once, and have learned to regard him as a past master, trying to handle his opponents in a workmanlike manner and hold himself safe where his fifted boxes would have encountered trouble.

Probably the greatest tribute paid to Packey was that voiced by Freddie Welsh, Packey's old time rival. "Let him come in at a welter weight," said he, and he is the most dangerous man that ever put on a glove, is what Freddie Welsh said, and it came from the bottom of his heart.

Now that Packey has decided to blossom out at welterweight it must prove him to think of all the years he wasted, trying to pose as a light weight. There is good reason for believing that if McFarland could have continued to lightweight requirements he would have been the king of the lightweighters years ago.

Incidentally there was no sorrow in the losing young lightweighters at that time of Packey's rapid taking on of weight. They insisted on holding him down to the last ounce and for this reason poor Packey could merely put out and insist that he could do 133 it given the sufficient time.

It wasn't in him, however, to try himself so low and retain strength member once in Chicago when he produced very close to 135—maybe he was while training for a bout with Volagast that did not take place. But he was a sorry looking Packey and to the sheriff of Milwaukee placed the seal of his disapproval on the match. Had Packey entered the ring that time, he would have looked as scary as Frank Erne did the night he fought Terry McGovern at Madison Square Garden.

Now that Packey is about to move up to the next weight division he may not get into the ring. He was always at least a few pounds too heavy for the champions. Had it not been for the chance, there is nothing butting Nelson nor Al Volagast would have achieved distinction as a world's lightweight champion.

So many matches have been called in the recent past that McFarland-Gibbons bout may fall of consumption in the interests of high class sport, but it is to be hoped that no stumbling block will appear.

The promoters no doubt bill it as a welterweight championship event. But as it will be a 16-round affair it is not easy to see how any title can hang on the result. A knockout would of course settle the man who scores it to the title.

In a match of this importance it is a pity the boxing commissioners do not insist sufficiently to allow the contestants to avail themselves of a referee vested with all a referee's powers. With such thorough workmen as McFarland and Gibbons a ten-round bout is ample to determine the question of superiority, especially when the rivals know that the man who shows to the better advantage will receive the official award.

After John Evers of the Cubs is said to think very highly of his current infielder, Walter Keating, and is strongly desirous that he will make good, for he is determined to support Al Brubaker at short with a younger man, who is not held up to all requirements, but is not as much on his feet for the Cubs now.

Oil distilled from the needles of spruce and fir trees are being used to scent perfume from their oil, which are sometimes sold on account of their odor.

TODAY CLIMAX OF FOOTBALL SEASON OF U.S. COLLEGES

Many Big Games Scheduled for This Afternoon in States.

HARVARD vs. PRINCETON IS GREATEST BATTLE

Harvard Looks to Be Best Team Although Tigers Playing on Their Own Field Will Fight Hard.

New York, Nov. 8.—Football enthusiasts will have no just cause to complain of a dearth of championship football games scheduled for their approval today. The day should be the banner day of the season of 1913. More than 25 elite matches are being played, not to mention the thousands of other college games that are being played in the backfield by stars of such magnitude as Harvard, Princeton, Yale, and Michigan. The list of whom have names if ever been brought together before, looks to have a clash that the Tigers appreciate.

But Princeton has lots of faith in the 11 that will be the Harvard and Princeton. The Orange and Black team's coaches have decided to put on the gridiron. In captain Cornell, the Princeton have a back who is sure to shine in open field play.

In the running battle, points between Olin Street, F. T. Franklin, Merrill, Zimmern and "Red" Baker, the remaining Harvard material, the coaches are in a state of uncertainty as to what to do with them. All these players are far above the ordinary caliber of varsity material and it would not be surprising if two sets of backs were used in the contest. If this course is decided upon, the Princeton will have a great advantage to the efficiency of the team.

In the Princeton football team, the experience of the Harvard players, although having the necessary weight to qualify, the Harvard players lack big experience and in this advanced day of football, experience is a very important factor.

At the extreme position the candidate runners look to be a little bit of a surprise. The Harvard players are in the line, the Princeton players are in the line, the Harvard players are in the line, the Princeton players are in the line.

A factor that is sure to have some bearing on the final outcome of the game, is the fact that the contest is to take place down at Princeton. The Tigers are sure to have themselves when put to the test on their own field.

Harvard comes on an easy victory last year but when you take into consideration that the battle was on their own ground and the Princeton "saw" Princeton's loss was an easy one, the score explains itself to a degree.

In 1911 experts throughout the country predicted a victory for the "Big Red" team, not figuring on the factor of luck, that Princeton has an important role in all the Orange and Black struggles. In that contest, the Harvard team, which was a surprise, was a surprise.

A contest that will share in football a great deal, is the one being played down at Franklin field, when Dartmouth and Pennsylvania meet in their initial game. The exhibition that these two teams will have to all those fortunate enough to be able to get to Franklin field, will be worth watching.

Meeting for the first time, both teams are expected to be the highest pitch and should furnish some sensational, aggressive, football.

Both teams are equipped with wonderful backs. The offense that broke through and have worked up for this contest will come as a revelation to the football world.

In Captain Young, Mills, Baker, Starbuck and Merrill, the Red and Blue backs will have a great deal to do.

WAS TROUBLED WITH Weak and Dizzy Spells.
Heart Would Beat Something Awful.

Those feelings of weakness, those dizzy spells which come over people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They indicate an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves. One dizzy spell may pass off, but eventually they will come frequently, and at the same time more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Aldrich's Heart and Nerve Pills before their case becomes hopeless, for they have no equal for restoring the heart to its usual strength, and making the nerves firm and steady.

Mrs. Len Kinney, Moore Mountain, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with weak and dizzy spells, and my heart would beat something awful. I got so I had these spells every day. I got so I would try one medicine, and then another, but nothing did me any good other than to take Aldrich's Heart and Nerve Pills. I tell all my friends who I think trouble them, to take your pills."

NARROW ROADS IN FRANCE SUCCESS

European Road Builders take Great Care to Elevate Curves on Motor Roads.

To dwellers in cities it seems rather strange to have narrow roads advocated. But The Motor Magazine asks: "Are we wasting money on roads?" and then proceeds to hold up the example of France, where a motor road is possible from end to end in every direction. It seems that after an extended tour over the roads of Europe, W. A. Murray, Principal Highway Engineer of Canada, has returned with a valuable fund of information on matters of road building. "One of the most important points observed," says The Motor Magazine, "was the comparative narrowness of the macadamized roads of France, which, while having a width of 24 feet, appeared much wider than those of the United States. In fact, some of the French roads were as narrow as 12 feet. We have no more roads in Canada so narrow as these, and the question naturally arises, are we wasting our money on roads that might be better spent on better highways?"

Curves in France have a width of 24 feet. If they were made half as wide, the cost would be reduced naturally by half. Thus it would be possible to build two miles of road at the present cost of one. The highway would then be nine feet wider than those of France, and would, without doubt, be amply wide enough for the traffic they would have to bear.

Another matter which has given close attention by the road-builders of Europe is the elimination of unnecessary curves, and no doubt the new Highway Commission will give due attention to this important matter by their future action. English roads have many dangerous curves which have been so since the advent of the automobile has revolutionized traffic. These curves have caused for perhaps hundreds of years, and it is a costly much money to straighten them and to remove buildings and other obstructions to the view which are in making curves dangerous. In the newer parts of Canada, where roads are yet to be laid out, it will be well for the road-builders to plan their roads with these facts well in mind and to profit by the experience of older countries.

With regard to the future, our contemporary in planning out the foregoing facts says that the length of roads in Canada constitutes the principal construction difficulty, and that narrower roads would mean road saving and increased possibilities. And after possibly would be cursing for a short time, the same as we are now doing, but the fathers for narrow streets in the older cities. It is noticeable that the progress in development, and more than that, they are due to these very narrow roads. Highways can be made too wide and about of the time, but the same facility for all sorts of travel. Presumably there will be a network of electric roads all over the country and with narrow roads it would mean monopoly of thoroughfares or no lines, which would mean the cutting off of localities from the main arteries of life and business.

SPORTOGRAPHY

In these days of constant improvement in all forms of athletic sports a record that has stood for a quarter of a century is a decided rarity. Yet it was just 25 years ago today, November 8, 1888, that J. Cannon hung up a professional running record that still holds its place in the dope book. Cannon's memorable feat was performed at Glasgow, Scotland, where he ran four miles in 19 min. 25 sec., making new records for all distances over two miles. Cannon covered the three miles in 14 min. 10 sec. At the three and a half mile mark his time was 17 min. 15 sec. It remained for an amateur, A. Strub, the English runner, to beat the professional record. In 1904 Strub covered four miles in 19 min. 25 sec., beating Cannon's time by two seconds. It is noteworthy that this feat was also performed in Glasgow. Strub's time for three and a half miles was 16 min. 25 sec. On this occasion Strub also beat a professional record for this distance, hung up in 1863 by J. White, an English runner, was 21 min. 10 sec. The six-mile mark, however, Strub fell behind White's ancient record. White's time was 36 min. 50 sec., and Strub's 39 min. 50 sec. White covered seven miles in 34 minutes and 45 sec., and Strub took 40 min. 30 sec. At eight, nine and 10 miles, however, Strub beat the professional record made by W. Cummings in England in 1885. Another professional record that still stands the assaults of half a century is that for the 12-mile distance, covered in 1 hour 9 min. 24 sec. by J. Bennett in 1883 by L. Bennett, better known as "Bert" Bennett. Bennett's time was 1 hour 9 min. 24 sec. in 1883. It is noteworthy that the dozen miles in 1 hour 2 min. 12 sec. in 1892.

The two Jimmy's fought again later in the same month, scoring 20 rounds to a draw, and in 1910 a third meeting in Milwaukee resulted in a draw decision at the end of 10 rounds. Gardner was born in County Clare, Ireland, while Clabby is a native of Connecticut, but of Irish descent. During Gardner's long career in the ring he defeated such men as Joe Walcott, Mike Menette, Young Ernie, Harry Lewis and Frank Klus. (Box-Jack Britton defeated Johnny Hogan in 6 rounds at Reading. ## A. C. RUBBER CO. OPEN BIG GARAGE

Will Handle Lozier Car Exclusively—New Building is One of Finest in City.

In today's edition will be found the official announcement of the opening of the Alberta Chemical Rubber Company's Garage, situated on 108th street, between Jasper and Athabasca avenues. This building is situated in one of the most convenient spots in the city, being one-half mile north of the main thoroughfare, one block from the C.P.R. depot, and on the same street as the main building.

The floor space of the building is 25,000 sq. ft., with a full size cement basement, which has sufficient clearance to permit the using of this portion of the building for storage purposes for motor cars. An electric lift is to be installed immediately for the accommodation of the basement, and when this is done the building will be one of the finest in the city.

The building is up-to-date in every particular. A large show room for the displaying of cars, two nice office rooms, lavatory and wash rooms on both floors and an excellent work room and wash rack. The company have secured the exclusive agency for Northern Alberta for the sale of Lozier cars, one of which needs no introduction to the automobile public, as its merits are well known all over the world. A carload of these high class cars are now on route from Detroit, and are expected some time around the 20th of this month.

The good points of character service in connection with the garage work are too many to attempt to set forth, but they suffice to make it a regular one. During the time of attention, service, etc., would do well to look into this matter, as the service this company intends giving the public is something which has never been attempted in Western Canada.

Directum 1 Makes Great Showing at Lexington

Is Wonder on Half Mile and Looks Like New Champion.

One of the greatest racing events in the history of Grand Circuit racing was won last week at Lexington, Ky., by Frank Hughes, Jr., Directum 1, (2:03 1/2), holder of the world's record for pacers over a half-mile track, was expected to take Frank Hughes, Jr., into camp, but he was sick and he will not have a chance until next year to make good.

Few pacers have appeared on the trotting turf in recent years that have attracted as much attention and excited curiosity as Directum 1, the chestnut stallion, bred and owned by James Butler, proprietor of East View Farm, East View, Ky. Directum 1, born in 1908, was a record of 2:03 1/2, Directum 1, was raced exclusively over the half-mile track. He has made 2:17 in 10 races, averaging from the 2:17 class to the free-for-all, and won all but one of his five heats in all these races. In his first start at Parkersburg, Brook, he earned a mark of 2:11 1/2, but the best he could do the following week at Philadelphia, Pa., was no better than 2:12.
